Arrowwood Social Credit Study Group Notes

A meeting of the above named Group was held on Tuesday March 9 with Mr. R. H. Anderson as chairman.

Mr. Anderson gave a report of the Little Bow Constituency Convention held in Vulcan earlier in the day. At this convention Mr. L. H. Irwin was named as the delegate to attend the convention to be held in Calgary some time next month. Mr. Irwin will represent Arrowwood and Mossleigh districts.

The following resolution was prepared and will be sent to Mr. Aberhart immediately:

"Be it resolved that we the Arrowwood Social Credit Study Group, do not consider it necessary or important to the Social Credit Movement that Mr. Aberhart should spend the time at this late date, in going to Edmonton, in organizing a plan for Social Credit for the members of the present Legislative Assembly, and further this meeting wishes to express their absolute confidence in Mr. Aberhart and his principles of Social Credit."

A radio was installed for the reception of Mr. Aberhart's Broadcast through the kindness of Mr. Omer Larsen and the broadcast was enjoyed by all present.

A joint broadcast will be sponsored by all groups in the constituency as soon as it can be arranged. Mr. Pat Coleman was elected chairman for the next meeting and everyone interested is cordially invited to attend next Tuesday at 8 p.m.

Mr. Taylor reported that he had interviewed Mrs. Gostic after the Milo meeting as to getting her to come to Arrowwood to speak but was informed that this would be impossible.

The Secretary was instructed to send $2.50 to Mr. Allerorth, of Milo, for the joint Constituency broadcast.

A large and enthusiastic crowd greeted Mrs. Gostic, of Calgary, who lectured on Social Credit in the Oddfellows' Hall last Wednesday evening. Evelyn Burries as Carolina the negro servant contributed to the humorous effect of the play by her superstitious beliefs.

Lila Clifgard and Russell Burris, the foster parents of Gailya were quite suited to their parts and depicted everything one would expect to see in the home life of a judge.

Orrence Norton as the busy banker showing faithfulness in his dutiful act, and his difficult manner added a touch of humor to the play.

Chester Baugh as Bart Wade made a hit with the audience when he appeared as a very handsomely dressed gentleman.

"Eyes of Love" Effectively Presented by Local Dramatists

With a cast of characters which could hardly have been better selected, the Arrowwood community was presented with another very clever comedy-drama last Saturday night by the Young People of the Brethren Church. The play was masterfully directed by Quinter Hollenberg and great praise is due him for his skillful direction and selection of players. The performers responded in a decidedly creditable manner and adopted themselves to the various situations which arose so that the large audience was held in tense excitement throughout the entire play.

Grace Irving was the leading lady Gailya, undoubtedly starred. Playing the part of an adopted daughter she enacted her great devotion towards her foster father and mother, pathos and romance also entered her life and only when the identity of the manacled-man, her father, is made known, is happiness assured.

Donald Bowman as Royal Manion in love with Gailya, carried the part through in a convincing manner.

Francis Mason, the manacled man, cleverly enacted his part especially in Act II where he appeared in disguise as the Italian Pietro. The same "Eyes of Love" were evident in both father and daughter and in the third act the manacled man rose to great heights assuring his daughter Gailya of future happiness.

The Brighter Side

For the past five years the people of Canada in common with those of other countries have been looking at the dark side of things, and during these years the picture at which they have been looking has become progressively darker and darker. In the early part of the year the market crash and the late months of 1929, people generally did not seek to look at any rays of light, they became more and more fearful, and preferred to dwell upon every unfavorable factor in the situation and to close their eyes and refuse to see anything that could be regarded as hopeful.

The picture was not all gloom and despondency and, unfortunately for Western Canada, it was accentuated by reason of the advent of a cycle of abnormally dry years, accompanied by other climatic conditions, with the result that there were other drawbacks entirely beyond the control of man, and all discouraging and destructive of confidence on the part of people so grievously afflicted.

The people of Canada, however, have displayed such wonderful fortitude, so much courage and such fine patience.

Within the last few months the clouds of depression have been thinning, conditions have been slowly improving, and the time has come when, we think, the people of Canada may well, to their own advantage and further encouragement, take a look at some of the brighter things in our national life for which they have been working so hard.

Under the leadership of a few nations Canada has maintained its national honor, has not repudiated her international obligations. As a result, Canada stands higher than ever in the estimation of the world. It is a great asset that she did not decrease in value but has been substantially increased, and the increase in value is reflected in the value of the dollar, that is ahead.

The general business situation in Canada is improving. In view of the economic conditions in which the whole world had sunk, this improvement will naturally be slow at first, but it is gathering momentum and volume. The trade of Canada, both import and export, and especially so, is increasing. The net national revenues are substantially larger and are increasing, all of which means more employment in the not distant future, and especially so if we take steps to remove or materially lessen the many restrictions now imposed on trade.

Another bright side to the Canadian picture is to be found in the fact that, in the opinion of the most learned men in the world, the Canadian people, Canada has been remarkably free of riots and other forms of defiance of the law which have characterized other lands and resulted in open strife and civil war. Canada's record in this respect is unique, and a result they are winning through, just as the people of Britain are winning through.

Considering the past, the present and the future, there is another and very large and important spot of brightness, leading to hope and confidence for the future. In the fact that almost alone among the nations of the world Canada has been spared the enormous cost burden which rests with crushing force upon the world to-day. This is due to the fact that the enormous cost of warlike preparations. While other nations are paying annual tribute in billions of dollars, even billions of dollars, to the greatest war in Mars, Canada's people are saving the world from the curse of war.

A couple of small destroyers, one on either seacoast, and a handful of aircraft which is merely a reserve to the established police forces of the country, has satisfied the military needs of Canada and saved us from our own borders, but in no sense an army maintained for offense against any nation, that is all. With no great battleships, no standing army, no great armament, Canada is in complete peace with the world, the friend of every nation, having no quarrel with any.

If this picture was otherwise, if the Canadian people were taxed to the limit, and were compelled to pay the price of a world war, and the equipment of wholesale human destruction, then Canada might have cause to fear for the future. Fortunately, that fear does not exist.

On the other hand, the economic conditions throughout Western Canada, with a removal of the artificial restrictions imposed upon the commercial transactions and business life of the country, will bring about a new era of opportunity, but perhaps more so, we have every reason to expect—and free from the apprehension of was-afrightened nations, the undying optimism of our drugists—brighter days are ahead, and find renewed confidence and happiness in the brighter, better days now dawning.

Magic of Science

Electric Lung Restores Speech To Persons Without Voice

An electric "lung" and a pair of magnetic handcuffs, both new, have come out of the scientific magic box of the Bell laboratories.

The lung substitutes electric current for air to make vocal sounds in the artificial larynx, which the laboratory invented to restore speech to about 1,000 persons in the United States who have lost their vocal cords.

The new instrument is placed in the mouth like a pipe. It pours out the mouth a stream which becomes intelligible speech merely by movement of mouth lips and tongue in ordinary conversational manner. The voiceless person uses a pocket battery little bigger than a deck of cards, which fits into his pocket in his mouth. He presses a "button" and the sound continues as long as he holds this switch closed.

The magnetic handcuffs demonstrate the super-magnetic power of a new alloy which possesses 10 times the magnetic strength of steel. A cuff on each wrist, or held on each hand, the chain between is joined by placing together two flat pieces of the new metal.

The most powerful man cannot pull these plates apart.

WHY HIS HEADACHES CEASED

Wife Put Kruskin In His Coffee

He could not understand why the headaches he had been subject to suddenly ceased. His wife told him to "go to bed" and he did, and wrote the following letter:

"I am 62 years of age, and ever since I can remember have been subject to very bad headaches. But two years ago the headaches stopped completely. I have been wondering what caused them to stop.

Two years ago my wife was surprised when one day my wife told me she had been using Kruskin coffee. I had been using Kruskin coffee in samples of rice ore and, on his return journey, discovered he was being followed through the darkness by ten men anxious to stake near his home. The trapper, pretending he was lost, led the men to follow his trail, then hurried to stake his claims.

Diamond drill cores from Consolidated Mining and Smelting Company claim the best results. Kruskin coffee has given rich deposits of gold 30 feet below the surface.

Uses Special Board

Blind Player Is Having Luck At Monte Carlo

A blind gambler Jukka is attracting the attention of visitors to the Casino at Monte Carlo, and some have found it profitable to follow his play.

Every day he arrives at the Casino alone and is escorted to his favorite place by one of the officials. He brings with him a special board covered with raised figures and thus he records various numbers as the turns up.

His play is systematic without being sensationally high, but it is seldom that he gets up from the green table a loser. His identity remains a mystery. He knows little French.

Larks Damage Wheat

Farmers In England Have Started War On Songsters

Even if Schubert were to write an ode about it, and Schubert was inspired by it to compose a beautiful melody, the lark is in a bad way, and it is damaged and dying rapidly. So decide the farmers in the vicinity of Norfolk, England, and they have started a war on the songster. The Norfolk Agricultural Committee has excluded the bird from the list of protected under the Wild Birds Protection Act. Any one therefore may shoot it and have lark pie. The skyliner is a nice bird, but we can't live by listening to it's whistle. George Hewitt, an agricultural leader in Norfolk, is said to have engaged in flocks from Germany and Russia.

It was stated in London the British Poppy Day realized $11,000 more in 1930 than in 1929, when the total was $51,800. The record collection being $524,650 in 1930.

Scout Notes

A "Living Scout Emblem" with thousands of performers forming the outlines, is the ambitious opening scene which will greet the Chief at the Rally in Victoria Arenas in a series of pageants and displays which bids fair to be the largest spectacle of its kind ever attempted in Calgary.

"Scouts and Guides of all Nations", the finale of the rally, will depict the international aspect of scouting with the performers dressed in the uniforms of the countries in which the movement is recognized and carrying the national flags of these nations. Particular interest is attached to the fact that Japan will be represented by a troop of Japanese Scouts from Raymond, the United States by visiting Scouts from Montana, and Denmark by members of the Standard troop, sons of parents who originally came from that country. And among the "Canadian contingent" will be members of the Blackfoot and Sarcee Indians, with troops from the Old Sun Indian school at Gleichen and the Sarcee Indian School at Sarcee.

Among the many spectacular

roop displays which will be a feature of the rally will be the demonstration of pony packing with the throwing of the intricate catches necessary for securing the dunngage of camping party to the pack saddle or the ponies which will be demonstrated by the High River Scouts. These displays will be a staged "stunt" for the Scouts of this foothills town masters of the art and much of their camping is done with pack ponies.

Scouts of Carlton district, locally rich in the lore of the cattle ranges and the home of many champion ropers, will show their prowess with the twirling rope in a display of rope spinning and lariat work.

Rockyford, with an expert in line construction as their Scout master, have promised an outstanding display of derrick building, while the Indian Scouts from the Old Sun school at Gleichen are staging some of the old tribal dances of their fathers in their full regalia as young Indian braves.

Woodsworth-Social Pioneer

Paper read by Mrs. Dwight Richards at a joint meeting of the U.F.A. and U.F.W.A. held at Mrs. J. S. Culps'.

Dear Fellow Members,

When asked to review a book for the U.F.W.A. my thoughts immediately turned to the above book, the press notices of which had just appeared in several periodicals and I was anxious to review it for various reasons. First, because of the interest which we all feel in Mr. J. S. Woodsworth, leader of our C.C.F. Group in Ottawa, and because of the desire to learn something of the fascinating events of his life which led him into the political realm. Secondly, I was interested in this book because I had the pleasure of being associated with the author in my student days. We were members of a group representing our Alma Mater at a Student Volunteer Convention in Des Moines and I came to hold Miss Ziegler in very high regards. She is a splendid type of Christian womanhood—Master of Arts in English—but served as National Girl's Work Secretary for the Y.W.C.A.—spent a year in India in Mission work, but had to return due to ill health. Since that time she has had social conditions at their very worst. Her activity in this field makes her most capable of telling the story of Mr. Woodsworth's work on a similar field in Winnipeg. She has combined a fine appreciation of his ideals with an enthusiasm which makes the book most interesting and readable.

Mr. Woodsworth came of pioneer United Empire Loyalist stock. His forefathers settled in "Muddy York" early in the eighteenth century and the name of Woodsworth has always been connected with Methodism since that time.

J. S. Woodsworth was born at "Applewood", the old farm homestead of his mothers people in 1874. His father being a minister, they had no fixed abode, but every three years moved to a new charge. The pioneer spirit was in his parents also, his father coming west with the family to serve the Church in the "new and untried fields of Western Canada", then part of the Toronto Conference. Very interesting experiences are related of these early days in the west, laying the foundation of a new country where the boy James spent his boyhood and youth. At eighteen he began his college career in Winnipeg and won success academically as well as in all student activities. He was awarded the much prized "Senior Stick" in his final year, as the highest honor that can be accorded a student by his fellows. He decided to train for the Christian ministry and spent two years in mission work followed by a course in divinity at Victoria College, and a year of post graduate study at Oxford. On graduation he accepted a call to a small congregation in the ministry and served his church with that same conscientious spirit which has characterized all his later life. At one time he sent in his resignation to the Church feeling forced to do so in order that he be honest with himself and true to his convictions. This resignation was not accepted, however, by his fellow ministers.

The following chapters deal with his work in the little mission in the North End of Winnipeg which grew and developed under his leadership, to be known across the Dominion as "All People's Mission". We will understand something of his work when we remember that in his first year there (1907, 250,000 immigrants came to Canada, "All People's" was the melting-pot for these people from all parts of the world. There is a very fine description of educational work done with these "New Canadian"—days and nights filled with all sorts of classes and Sundays with Church services and popular lectures which developed into the "People's Forum".

After six years of service here Mr. Woodsworth felt called to wider fields. We find being established at this time a centre for social welfare called the Canadian Welfare League, with Mr. Woodsworth chosen as secretary. As he was particularly qualified for this work doors continued to open for him. The government of the three prairie provinces established a Bureau of Social Research in 1916, and as the most suitable man, he was appointed to undertake the new work.

The doors which were now wide open to him were as quickly closed again in 1917 when he sent, after due consideration, a letter to the Free Press, denouncing the forcing of men into military service against their will. The letter which he wrote sounds more like the sentiments which we hear commonly expressed today with regard to war resistance, and we may note at the present time of one who could express such opinions twenty years ago in the midst of the world's most fearful disaster—the Great War. As a result he lost his position and slipped out of the many activities in which he had been engaged for so long.

The next few years are sad ones in the light of a splendid career hindered in its' fight for a new social order. Through the difficulties which followed he kept up his fine courage and faith and his vision in the ultimate goal, of a better life for all. He was forced to seek employment as an unskilled laborer among the longshoremen at the Pacific Coast. He turned this misfortune to advantage and took the opportunity of studying the workers' problem at intimate range and he became very much interested in the labor movement. From here his return to public life was as advocate of the laborers' viewpoint. We trace his history through the Labor Party in British Columbia, on a Western speaking tour in the interests of Labor and on into that dreadful experience in connection with the Winnipeg strike, when he, with other labor leaders, was arrested. From here the step to Ottawa is but a short one, as in 1921 he received nomination and was elected as the first Labor Member in the Canadian House of Commons.

The last few chapters deal extensively with his life in Parliament, bringing the story of a new social order into the midst of the old line parties. How influential his work there has been, is being realized today in the form of some of the social measures he has advocated, gradually becoming placed on our statute books. You will find these last chapters very interesting in view of the fact that the name of our own U.E.A. men appear often as co-operating with Mr. Woodsworth in his fight for social change.

If you like biography, I know you will find this book full of interest and will enjoy it to the full.

Sincerely,
Frances A. Hodgson

Passengers Located Close to Center of Car

Three major engineering principles combine to give to the new Ford V-8 for 1935 what Ford engineers term the "centre-poise" ride, according to Larsen Implement, local Ford dealers.

These principles are: Correct spring suspension, involving equality of front and rear spring flexibility.

Proper car weight balance and passenger weight distribution.

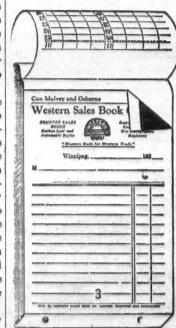

Location of passengers close to centre of the car, utilization of this in combination as practiced by Ford engineers, achieves for the new Ford V-8 remarkable improvement in riding comfort without sacrifice of either safety or stability.
